CHARLOTTE.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 9, 1862.

To our City Subscribers.

In consequence of changing our carriers several of our city subscribers have not been regularly supplied if at all, during the past two weeks. We regret this very much and hope to rectify it in a few days. Bear with us.

Surplus of Bacon.

The Cincinnati Gazette estimates that there will be a surplus of 89,000,000 pounds of Bacon in the Northwest this year should the rebel markets not be opened, but if the latter event should take place the hog crop would not supply the demand. It is conjectured that the Lincoln army will consume 40,000,000 pounds during the year.

Another Wrecked Yankee.—We received the pleasing intelligence yesterday that another Yankee steamer had gone ashore opposite Swansboro' or Cedar Point on Sunday night. We have not heard the particulars about it yet but we are able to give something more in our next, as Major Boon and Lieut. Colonel Robinson left yesterday to pay it a visit. It's a good time now for them to prow around our coast. Pity that Burnside didn't get to Hatteras on Saturday instead of Old Point.

England Must Have Cotton.—The Cork Reporter, of December 13, says: It is stated that Earl Russell had assured a deputation which waited on him that arrangements had been made for the exportation of cotton from the Southern States during the month of February next.

The Panic is Over.—Some 80 or 100 bushels of salt sold here yesterday morning at auction, at about $4.25 per bushel. It was first offered in lots of one bushel, with the privilege of two, and the two first lots went at $5.10. It then dropped down to $4.50, and finally to $4.15 in lots of one bushel with privilege of five, and the sale closed, we believe, at this figure.

[Savannah Republican Dec. 31.]

Col. T. L. Cooper, commanding the 8th (Barlow's) Georgia regiment, was killed at Manassas, on the 24th ult., by a fall from his horse. He was about thirty-three years of age.

Acknowledgement.

CAMP HILL, Dec. 16, 1861.

MR. BRITTON:—Dear Sir: Allow me through your columns to thank the Ladies Soldiers' Aid Society of Charlotte, for the valuable contribution of Clothing made to my Company; they were of the right kind and came in time of need.

T. H. BREN, Capt.
Co. C., 10th Regt. N. C. S. T.

Editor of the Bulletin.]

"Agricola," in your Wednesday issue, states that "the country has not been indifferent to the contest now pending in our town for Commissioners." While we are willing to see our country friend take an interest in our town election, yet we beg of him to take a truthful view of the matter, and make a truthful statement of the point at issue.

He states that the town subscribed $40,000, paid half the debt, and now certain parties do not want to pay at all. Agricola mistakes the matter, (whether willfully and with evil design or not, we do not say.) The town subscribed not $40,000—but $60,000, with the condition for an independent gauge. The Commissioners of the year 1860, without authority from the people, reduced the subscription to $40,000, and gave up the independent gauge, and virtually made the road an extension of the C. & S. C. R. R., and Charlotte a way station thereon.

The Board of 1861 doubting the authority of the preceding Board to undo what the people themselves, through the ballot box, had ordered, refused to sanction this change of subscription and gauge, and therefore refused to pay the interest on the debt after such a change, so prejudicial to the interests of this town, and so contrary to the original contract. They regarded the interests of the town of Charlotte as paramount to the interests of the C. & S. C. R. R. Co., who were extending their road at the expense of the Corporation of Charlotte—and they throw themselves upon the verdict of the people of the town to say whether they have done right in protecting the town from such an imposition as the extension of the C. & S. C. R. R. Co., commonly called the A. T. & O. R. R., is likely to be.

Agricola may be a stockholder in the C. & S. C. R. R. Co. If so, "his plain duty he thinks the present Board wrong; he will make his profits in increased dividends, and it matters not to him if the people are saddled with a heavy and urgent debt."

CITIZEN.

Tax Payer in your Monday's issue seems to have made a discovery that the present Board have borrowed one thousand dollars and wishes to know why this was so.

In reply we would say that every Board for years past, have had to borrow to meet the payment of the month of January—interest on the Bonds of the Military and Female Academies, Guard pay, &c., which debt has always been promptly discharged out of the next Tax List. The Board of 1860, with a different Intendant and a different Marshall, had to borrow Two THOUSAND DOLLARS, which the Board of 1861 have paid off. The present Board have in addition, as appears from their report, discharged other debts of the former Board, and still have a large list of delinquent Taxes more than sufficient to pay all they owe—prominent among these delinquent Tax-payers are leading friends and candidates on the Independent Ticket; whose Taxes if paid would probably have saved the Board of 1861 the necessity of borrowing at all.

Gen. Pillow's Resignation.

We have already announced that Gen. Pillow has resigned. The Columbus News thus announces the fact:

It is with feeling of no ordinary emotions of regret that we record the fact that, on yesterday, Gen. J. G. Pillow, retired from the command of a brigade of the army at this place. We are wholly unacquainted with the cause which impelled this distinguished officer to the course he has chosen to pursue. We would not canvass those causes if we knew them. Suffice it to say they were deemed sufficient and imperious by Gen. Pillow himself.

It is with the fact that the Southern public will have to deal. That fact is, that an officer, high in rank, with his brow wreathed with laurels fresh and green from the battle field of Belmont—with a heart, every pulsation of which beats responsive to the obligation he owes to his country—in opposition to the expressed desire of his whole command, officers and men, has surrendered his high position in the army and retired to private life. This fact can but be regretted by the whole Southern nation. We do not incline to be fulsome in praise of the retiring commander, nor shall we attempt to draw a contrast between him and others; but we will say that the energy, devotion and zeal of Gen. Pillow has deservedly won for him the admiration of the army and community at Columbus. The devotion of his own brigade was shown in the trembling lip and tearful eye, as they parted with their beloved commander.

What Comes After?

The faint glimmer of rationality still left to the Northern Government only seems to render its moral insanity more conspicuous. The surrender of Messrs. Mason and Slidell shows that not even the Abolition frenzy of the North, not even its irresponsible impulse towards a conflict with the social system of the South, can be said to display a more steadfast momentum than the meanness of the Northern President and his Ministers. It is absolutely unconquerable. We can count upon no principle and no policy in their administration, save the principle and the policy of universal meanness. Destitute of sound discretion, as they are destitute of valor, they rely upon enduring meanness as a substitute for both. Their cowardice has triumphed where their prudence failed, and they have escaped the summary vengeance of England by yielding to a humiliating demand which they were bound alike by decency and consistency to resist to the bitterest extremity.

But, supposing the Northern Government in this case to have rendered the amplest satisfaction which could be rendered by specific restitution and abject apology, we may well ask—What comes after? Will England be disposed to waive her rights with regard to the blockade after vindicating her rights in the Trent affair? There are abundant reasons why she should not. In the Trent affair her material interests were not directly involved; her honor was wounded, her character was at stake, and she was called upon to exact prompt reparation. But her victory will be barren, the prestige of her position will be impaired, if she fails to assert her neutral rights in relation to the blockade with as much fearlessness as she asserted them in the Trent affair. In that affair she put the placard of the Northern Government to the test. She found behind the bluster of the Northern press, behind the diplomatic audacity and the insinuated threats of Seward, not a particle of backbone in Lincoln and Seward when the moment came for facing point-blank the question of war with a great maritime power. And would it be reasonable to suppose that, after the Northern Government had humbled itself in the dust before England to avoid a war in the Trent affair, it would choose to go to war with the same power rather than yield its pretensions in reference to a notoriously inefficient and illegal blockade? Assuredly not.

Right in the dealings of nations with each other, has never been weakened in effect by the urgent pleadings of interest. England is the last nation whom one would expect to reject those pleadings, and content itself with an empty theory of right while enduring the denial of its practical benefits. The people of England are at this moment suffering from such a denial; in a short time they will bitterly suffer; and before the end of the winter their sufferings would be such as to force upon their Government the choice of commercial ruin and wide-spread starvation at home, or the enforcement of its national rights against the Northern Government and the protection of its commercial interests in connection with the South. But why postpone an issue which must surely come, and whose delay will be so calamitous? The end of punishment, says Vattel, is future security. England has punished the North for one outrage; but what future security will she have gained if she suffers the outrage of the blockade to be perpetuated?—New Orleans Delta.

DEFENSES OF TEXAS.—A joint resolution has been introduced in the Legislature of Texas, authorizing the Governor to call into the field 30,000 men, or less, whenever, in his opinion, the public safety demands such a move, and to continue them in service six months or longer, if their services are needed for State defense.

A bill has been passed incorporating the Texas Powder Company. It is expected this Company will go into immediate operation.

Steps have been inaugurated to establish a manufactory of arms in the State.

The following is the subscription of a letter that passed through the Louisville Post Office the other day. We apprehend it has not yet reached Nashville:

"Feds and Confeds, let this go free Down to Nashville, Tennessee. This three cent stamp will pay the cost Until you find Sophia Yost."

"Postmasters North, or even South, May open it and find the truth, I merely say my wife's got well, And has a baby cross as you know what."

A Startling Order from Gen. Hunter.

The St. Louis Democrat, Republican, publishes the following order from Gen. Hunter, and remarks:

"If the following, which has been handed to me, is correct, Gen. Hunter should at once be drummed out of the United States service. It is a shocking and horrible order, nearly as wicked as Cameronism. It will be seen that a major-general of the United States army threatens to burn Platte City, Missouri, unless some accession of soldiers is sent or expelled from it; that he will reduce it to ashes and steal all the negroes. It is unquestionably a canard, but the gentleman who sent it to this city is certified to by one of our most distinguished citizens, who agrees with me that his friend may be deceived. We shall include it to Washington, and if there are any real facts in the case, they must be brought out, and Gen. Hunter ought to be superseded."

HEADQUARTERS DEP. OF KANSAS,
Fort Leavenworth, Dec. 2, 1861.

To the Trustees of Platte City, Missouri: Gentlemen:—Having received reliable information of depredations and outrages of every kind, committed by a man called "St. Gordon," a leader of rebel marauding bands, I give you notice that unless you seize and deliver the said Gordon to me at these headquarters, within ten days from this date, or drive him out of the county, I shall send a force to your city with orders to reduce it to ashes, to burn the house of every secessionist in your county, and to carry away every negro. Col. Jennison's regiment will be intrusted with the execution of this order.

D. HUNTER,
Maj. Gen. Com'g.

Latest from Lincolnism.

From the Memphis (Tenn.) Avalanche:]

We learn that a gentleman connected with Gen. Jeff Thompson's staff, stated to an officer on the steamer Kentucky, at New Madrid, Thursday night, that the latest papers just received at that point from St. Louis, contained the important information that Mason and Slidell had been surrendered to England by the administration, and that there was a division in the Cabinet in consequence.

There was also a tremendous row in Congress, the members being divided into three factions—one party being in favor of the prosecution of the war for the preservation of the Union; another party for the extermination of slavery; and the third party in favor of a peace on the basis of the recognition of the Southern Confederacy. This peace party is said to be quite formidable, and is led by Vallandigham, of Ohio.

It is also said to be well understood at Washington, between McClellan and Lincoln, that there would be no forward movement at any point till these difficulties were healed.

Such are the representations of an official character at New Madrid, purporting to have been derived from the latest St. Louis papers. Knowing the parties as we do, we see no reason to doubt their entire correctness.

Goods for the People.—Yesterday one of our city wharves presented quite an active scene, in consequence of a fine display of merchandise which crowded the surrounding space, and which was being discharged from a vessel lately from foreign parts.

The cargo consisted of English blankets, Confederate grey cloths, hardware in casks, coffee, soap, candles, codfish, spool cotton, English paper and envelopes, butter, arrowroot, cheese, linens, hosiery, buttons, needles, Spanish segars and various other articles of great value at this time.—Charlotte Courier, 7th.

COTTON FALLING SHORT IN LINCOLNDOM.

We read that Mr. Harrington, of New York, has invented a machine for untwisting cotton ropes, of which, it is said, there is a large supply in that city, in order to obtain a supply of the staple for manufacturing purposes!
